Rialto boast, and one that has held good for a long time. Actors pass a considerable portion of their lives on the railroad train, but a curious luck seems to be theirs. They generally escape unhurt when disaster carries off less fortunate mortals. Eddie Girard, of the Donnelly and Girard comedian team, was on board the train that left Manhattan Beach after the Suburban and was so totally crecked. Girard had been to the races. and had backed the wrong horse. nowever, is unnecessary detail.) He was feeling rather blue, when the accident happened. He is an athletic young man, and he did what he calls the monkey act. At the moment of the shock he doubled himself up, and gave a bound out of the car. He found himself several vards from the horrible scene, but he ings. He was panic-stricken, and fied for his life. Yesterday he told his experiences on the Rialto, and the Rialto chuckled gloatingly. It was simply anther case of not being able to kill an actor. Major Charles Rice was also on the fatal train, and several advance agents were there. The accident was the prindpal topic of conversation among thestrical people yesterday.

"Bob" Graham had a dream the night before the Suburban. He thought he saw Lowlander come out with winning colors. Like most actors, he is supertitious. He told his wife of his dream She is the treasurer of the household. to Bob. "Go to the races, my boy," she what Mr Grahim did and he won $750 To-day he is nore superstitious than yer. Roland Reed was another fortu-ate backer of the unexpected winning orse. There was a good deal of money lat, however, in theatrical circles, and, s this is balmy Summer, when salaries have ceased, there is a gloom upon many dramatic offices.

Manager H. C. Mher has just signed a contract to star Edward Vroom next season. Mr. Vroon is the ambitious young actor, who, a short time ago, gave a matinee performance of "Ruy Bias" at the Fifth Avonuc Theatre, playing a dual role, to prove that he could do it as well as Salvini. Jean Williams, a bright young man, who last season was with the Rosenfelds, will be business manager of the Vroon company.

Harry Sanderson is going to give us at Trony Pastor's Theatre next season a pice, cool, wet attracthn. There will be a tank upon the scare, and in this tank pretty Miss Beckvith, the well-known English swimme, will appear, and give a series of performances. The young woman's work is educational in its character. She shows how to swim in various "styles," how o dive, effect rescues, and take to the water grace-tuily.

There is just a slight rumor going around to the effect that Elemora Duse may play in this country fixt season under other managers than the Rosenfeld brothers. It is hinted that she has not as yet signed with the Messas Rosenfeld, and that she has received half a flozen splendid offers from other sources.

Prof. Kellar received a letter from Arot. Reliar received a letter from Mugustin Daly yesterday, giving him permission to extend his engagement at Daly's Theatre until August if he cares to do so. The original contract still expire July 1. It is possible that he magician will avail himself of the manager's offer.

Richard Harlow, the Isabella of "1482," designs his own gowns, and during stage waits he wears a scarlet Japanesewrapper in his dressing-room. Off the stage he is always faultlessly attired in slack. Says Manager E. D. Price: "He has the muscles of an athlete and the fairskin of a woman. His hand is singularly small and shapely, and it has been photographed upon a dark backgraind, holding a lily of the valley. The stris all rave over it." Young Harlow played men, women and children incollege burlesque, and so got his fancy for Manager John D. Hopkins, of Hokins's Trans-Oceanics, was in town yesterday, full of enthusiasm about the Lars-Larsen family, which he brins to this country next season. This family consists of four women and on man, all acrobats, and Mr. Hopkins declares that these women will be the first in America to turn double some-saults. The manager is also interested a the Crystal Mazes, the idea of which is brought to this country. He says that there are fifteen of them being constructed in different cities, in additing to that on Broadway and another a Coney Island.

There is a little story about Sarah Bernhardt. When she was playing in Genoa she was to appear in "Le Passant," by Coppee. There was a small audience, and Sarah, learning that fact, declined to appear; in other words, abe was taken seriously ill. The manager went before the curtain and made the following address; "Ladies and gentlemen. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has over-exerted herself lately. She has literally succumbed to her work. My opinion, in which I am sure you will all agree, is more than sufficient return for the money you have paid." What a splendid advance agent that manager would make for this country!

Edwin Gordon Lawrence, director of the Lawrence School of Acting of New York, is to return to the stage this Fall, appearing in a refined Indian melodrama by Emerson Bennett, of Philadelphia. The scenes are laid during the revolutionary war, and the author alms to make them true pictures of pioneer life as it existed in those days, with its rough simplicity, ruin, death and final triumph of the hero. The scenery is all to be expressly painted, and several startling noveltles are expected.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 22 .- A vest-bound freight on the Cleveland and Pittsburg road jumped the track yesterday near the freight station and several of the derailed cars crashed into contiguous buildings, completely wrecking the large three-story plant of the Falk Stave Company and a small warehouse on the opposite side of the track. In the Mountford Pottery, adjacent to the scene of the mishap, a wild panic was created among the girls on the third and fourth floors, and they made a break for the stairway, where they became jammed in an almost inextricable mass.
